Fallen soldiers honored on Memorial Day

By Gregory A. Scibelli
 Turley Publications
 Correspondent

AGAWAM – The town of Agawam celebrated Memorial Day on Monday with a parade and short remembrance ceremony on the Veterans Green next to Phelps Elementary School.

In a touching moment, this year's parade marshal, Army National Guard Staff Sgt. Brett Graveline, an Agawam native, tried to take the spotlight off himself and focus it on the real meaning of the day.

"Today is not about me," said Graveline, a 1990 graduate of Agawam High School. "It is about those who have lost their lives fighting for our country."

Graveline is a veteran of two tours of duty in Iraq during the War on Terror. In 2009, Graveline was injured during a helicopter crash. He was at the Walter Reed Army Medical Center for about four years and had 10 surgeries. He has a brace on his left leg and his neck has been fused several times. Despite his numerous injuries, he held true to the fact that Memorial Day was not about him.

Agawam Veterans Agent Richard Gerard said Graveline's service and his road to getting out of the hospital and returning home to Agawam was an important story to share.

"We thought it was a great idea to have him here today and honor him with being the parade marshal," said Gerard.

Graveline said he appreciated the standing ovation he received from his hometown, and he was happy to get to speak to Agawam residents.

"This means so much to me," said Graveline, who went on to thank his parents for their support during his recovery. "You guys loved me every step. Even when things were difficult, you loved me more."

Gerard spoke fondly about being proud of a woman he met recently who was an immigrant from Poland. He recalled she volunteered to help at the Holyoke Soldiers Home recently.

"She has a wonderful life here," said Gerard, "and she realized that her life is great because of people who fought and made the ultimate sacrifice."

First-ever Band-A-Thon fundraiser a noted success

By Kate Anderson

AGAWAM – The Agawam High School band program staged its first Band-A-Thon fundraiser at the Polish American Club last Saturday, May 24, and it was a noted success. Jodi Albertson, an AHS alum and current band parent, says that performance-based fundraisers like the Band-A-Thon are the future; gone are the days of selling candy bars to raise funds for the arts.

Humason seeking first full term in state senate

By Gregory A. Scibelli
 Turley Publications
 Correspondent

REGION – State Sen. Donald Humason, R-Westfield, has announced he will seek election to a full two-year term to the Massachusetts State Senate after winning a special election last year to fill the seat previously occupied by Michael Knapik.

"It was an easy decision for me to decide to run again because I ran with the intention to run again this year," said Humason.

It was a quick turnaround for the veteran legislator, who spent 11 years as a state representative for Westfield. When Knapik resigned, he immediately announced his intention to run for state senate, and defeated Democrat David Bartley, of Holyoke, in a special election. Humason serves out the remainder of the term and must run for re-election this fall.

His priorities have not changed; Humason says he is focused on many of the same things he ran for last year.

Planned repairs of I-91 viaduct move forward

By Christopher Faille

SPRINGFIELD – At a meeting in the theater of the Basketball Hall of Fame on May 20, dozens of people heard officials from the state's Department of Transportation (MassDOT) lay out existing plans for repair of the I-91 viaduct from State Street to the I-291 interchange.

Plans involve the painting of all structural steel, replacement of bridge bearings, improvement of drainage and lighting, miscellaneous structural steel repairs, and various other improvements in the vicinity of the viaduct. Several city residents spoke during a question-and-answer period after the presentation.

MassDOT project manager Michael O'Dowd said early on that the DOT is confident that the viaduct is not "unsafe." The department wouldn't allow the road to remain open if they believed it unsafe. Nonetheless, it is "unreliable," with the frequency of repairs and thus of obstruction and traffic delays rising and bound to

Students at the Roberta G. Doering School play wheelchair soccer in physical education class last week as part of a unit on playing sports with disabilities.

Challenge takes to the wheels

By Gregory A. Scibelli
Turley Publications Correspondent

AGAWAM – People with physical disabilities can do many of the same things everyone else can – just modified.

That was the message being sent by Center of Human Development Program Director Nancy Bazanchuk to students at the Roberta G. Doering School following a week of wheelchair sports classes in physical education. Bazanchuk has been visiting Doering School for the past 16 years. She brings with her a set of 10 wheelchairs with slanted wheels that are specialized for playing sports.

Bazanchuk was born with birth defects and confined to a wheelchair following the amputation of her legs. She now spends her time working with the Center of Human Development and visits schools to teach children about people with disabilities, as well as encourage those with disabilities to integrate themselves socially with the mainstream population.

Physical Education Teacher Debbie Lickley has been arranging for Bazanchuk to visit Doering for an entire week each year because the wheelchair sports are fully written into the curriculum. The same is not true in many other schools. Bazanchuk is a native of Agawam and went through the Agawam public schools and is happy to come back to educate local students.

“This is one of our favorite units to teach the children here,” said Lickley. “Nancy puts in an entire week at our school, and she is tireless in the time she spends here with the kids. It’s a very long week.”

Lickley believes it is important for her students to realize what people with physical limitations are able to do.

“It exposes them first-hand to what Nancy can do and shows the different tools people in wheelchairs can use to play sports,” said Lickley.

Bazanchuk spent part of each physical education class teaching the students about the different equipment used. She showed them an ice scooter and modified hockey sticks used by students to play hockey and enjoy their time on the ice.

She then explained the wheelchairs, which have slanted wheels to allow for more stability while they are in action. Bazanchuk said the chairs are very expensive and were donated so she could use them in schools.

The classes then got the opportunity to play a modified version of indoor soccer, using the wheelchairs to move the ball around. Goalies were not able to stand and players in the chairs could only hold the ball for three seconds. Students embraced the modified game and enjoyed themselves, Lickley said.

Bazanchuk also spent some time answering questions for the students, including teaching them about how she drives and gets around herself without the use of her legs. She also taught them how she dresses and does other daily household activities.

The future of the weeklong program is up in the air, Bazanchuk said. Lickley has been instrumental in taking the initiative to arrange for her appearance at Doering. Lickley will be retiring at the end of the school year.

“I am hoping whoever takes over will still want to continue doing the program next year,” said Bazanchuk.

Opinion

A day of remembrance, gratitude

Editor's Note: In the aftermath of our area's Memorial Day observances and parades that were sparsely attended by the public, we thought a primer on the extreme importance of this national holiday was in order.

The origins of Memorial Day have never been determined. In 1966 President Lyndon Johnson declared Waterloo N.Y as Memorial Day's official birthplace, but more likely it sprang up in thousands of cities, towns and villages across the nation when families buried their dead brought home from the saddest war of all, our Civil War.

Even before the end of that conflict, southern women were decorating graves of confederate dead, and in 1867 a woman named Nella Sweet wrote a hymn about them, "Kneel Where Our Loves Are Sleeping."

The first Memorial Day (known then as Decoration Day) was officially proclaimed on May 5, 1868, by General John Logan, national commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, and officially observed on May 30 when flowers were placed on the graves of both union and confederate soldiers at Arlington National Cemetery.

Since then, there have been many wars, but those who fought in them answered the nation's call, gave the last full measure of devotion, and deserve our gratitude.

There were the Indian wars during our westward expansion, the Spanish American War, World Wars I and II, the Korean War (often called the forgotten war, but a hellhole if there ever was one) and the night-mare of Vietnam.

More recently we've had our first invasion of Iraq and the second.

Someday we may achieve the distant dream of a world at peace, but until then our (mostly) young men and women will answer our call and some will come home in flag draped coffins.

The least we can do is turn out to remember them on a (hopefully) bright spring day and express our appreciation and gratitude. We may hate war, the killing and wanton destruction, but we've never been able to avoid it or end it, although that dream persists.

Perhaps it is only with the end of history that there will be peace—as implied in a favorite poem of ours, "Dark Hills," by Edwin Arlington Robinson:

Dark hills at evening in the west Where sunset hovers like a sound

Of golden horns that sang to rest Old bones of warriors underground-- Far now from all the bannered ways Where flash the legions of the sun, You fade, as if the last of days

Were fading, and all wars were done.

But one must hope that sanity may one day over- take humankind, allowing us to do what we must to survive: nurture this little planet of ours instead of fighting over it.

In the meantime though, we owe the peace and freedom of our little corner of the world to those who have gone before us, fought for us and given their lives.

Praise them.

CROP Walk a success

To the editor:

The Agawam/West Springfield CROP Hunger Walk was held on April 27. The 5-mile walk, hosted by Agawam Congregational Church, raised nearly $8,000 to "End Hunger One Step at a Time." Seventy-five percent of funds raised go to Church World Service and 25 percent goes to the local Parish Cupboard. Walking teams included Agawam and Feeding Hills congregational churches, Boy Scout Troop 82, First Baptist Church West Springfield, First Congregational UCC West Springfield, Good Shepherd Episcopal Church, Grace Lutheran Church, Mittineague UCC and West Springfield United Methodist Church. The top fundraising groups were Agawam Congregational Church ($2,055) and Mittineague UCC ($1,449).

The CROP Planning Committee would like to thank Agawam Congregational Church for hosting the Registration Rally; the Agawam Lion's Club for providing lunch for the walkers; Kevin Bell from Okey-Dokey DJ Services; and the Agawam Police Department for providing safe crossings. We look forward to the 2015 CROP Hunger Walk next spring in West Springfield.

Community support appreciated

To the editor:

The GFWC Agawam Junior Women's Club would, once again, like to thank the community for its support for the club's annual Runway for Education Fashion Show.

With everyone's contributions, the Agawam Juniors raised over $4,000, allowing for the distribution of several $500 scholarships to Agawam residents going on to college next year, as well as continuation of other educational programs such as the Spelling Bee, Bingo for Books and the Safety Bug program.

The generosity of this community shows its commitment to the education of our young people, and the AJWC truly appreciates everyone's efforts.

School nurses contracted through Health Dept.

To the editor:

The following statement is made in response to recent news video of the Agawam School Committee meeting held on Tuesday, May 13, and in response to local news reports and several letters written to the School Committee. Although we have the utmost respect for our school nurses, as vice chairman of the Agawam School Committee, I would like it known that the nurses are contracted through the Town of Agawam Health Department not the School Department. We do not negotiate with the nurses association nor do we have any decision-making power over their individual contracts.

Miracles do happen

To the editor:

A while back our family pet was lost. We searched high and low. The man who picks up "road kill" saw the flier and assured me he "scraped him up in pieces," so I couldn't pick him up for proper burial. We were all devastated until three weeks later. Our beloved Siamese "Pauli," named after my late husband, was found alive! Tears of joy streamed with hearty thanks to the family who found him.

Sadly, once again he got out May 15. We have put hundreds of fliers out. "Pauli" is a friendly seal point Siamese, dark face with blue eyes, a very loud voice, and a notch out of his ear. He has been spotted on Mill Street to Sacred Heart Church. Please help bring "Pauli" home. We do believe in miracles. Thank you so very much.

Presented through special arrangement with Music International, this full-length, 2-hour production is directed by Lyle Pearsons with choreography by Marilene Allen and Stephanie Hoag under the musical direction of Ashley and David Duplessis. The 38-member cast is comprised of area talent of all ages and features Ben Rodriguez as Horton the Elephant; Adam Sherlin as JoJo; Caleb Curd as the Cat in the Hat; Marilene Allen as Mayzie; Margie Secora and Maryam Yamin as Sour Kangaroo and Young Kangaroo respectively; Kyle Theriault as Gen. Schmitz; Mitch Czerpak and Lynn-Ann Parsons as Mr. and Mrs. Who-Mayor; Tony Curd as the Grinch; and Jaime Pearsons as Gertrude McFuzz.

“I want to provide good constituent services,” said Humason, who was approached by Agawam residents while attending the Agawam Memorial Day services. “I want to be out there and available for people to speak to me if they want to.”

Humason wants to be approachable and makes frequent appearances at events, and says the new position of state senator has been more demanding of his time.

“It’s definitely a little more time consuming representing 11 towns instead of one,” said Humason. “I have to thank my wife and son for their understanding.”

Humason says he will continue to bring an experienced voice to Boston and make sure that a common sense approach is taken when it comes to creating a balanced budget.

“People want better government and lower taxes,” said Humason.

He said he is frequently asked to make sure Western Massachusetts is not forgotten by the rest of the legislators in Boston.

Humason is a part of the minority group in Boston as the 40-member state senate only has four Republicans.

Humason does have two challengers: Democrats Pat Leahy and Christopher Hopwell, both of Holyoke, have announced their intentions to run for Senate recently.

Agawam could once again end up being a “swing city” in the 11-town district. In last year’s special election, Humason defeated Bartley 18,123 votes to 16,493.

Humason carried his hometown of Westfield by a vast majority and Bartley followed suit with his hometown of Holyoke. Bartley carried a section of Chicopee and the Democratic-heavy Easthampton. Humason carried Republican-heavy Southwick along with Granville, Tolland and Russell. In Agawam, which has had representation from both parties in recent years at the House and Senate levels, Humason defeated Bartley 3,521 to 2,303.

Humason currently maintains monthly office hours in Agawam. He also plans to continue to assist Agawam in its mitigation efforts with a casino potentially landing in Springfield.

“For those surrounding towns, it will be all about mitigation,” said Humason. “I have to do my best to make sure there will be minimal impacts on those communities if Springfield does get a casino downtown. But I also hope to support the positives, including job creation and additional tourism and revenues.”

continue to rise year-by-year unless something systemic is done. Matters are too far advanced to allow for mere patching, he said.

I-91 along the affected stretch consists of three lanes in each direction, northbound and southbound. The rehabilitative work, expected to begin late this year, (contingent on federal funding, which is expected to pay for 80 percent of the cost) will take place in two phases. Crews will work first on the inside lanes and later on the outside lanes, so that there will be two travel lanes in each direction open throughout.

There will, of course, be consequences for traffic. Two lanes each way will suffice for much of the day, but will create congestion and delays during peak commuting hours on weekdays. Aside from the lane closures, work will require ramp closures as well. There was much discussion at the meeting of how traffic will be re-routed when the ramps are closed.

O'Dowd and the other officials present drew a distinction between drivers with "local knowledge" and those without. Drivers without a lot of knowledge of the roads in downtown

Springfield – drivers on the way from New Haven, Conn., to a destination in Vermont, for example – will follow the detours that will be indicated by signs. There will be many such signs to guide them.

Those drivers are predictable, and the signs will lay out routes that will allow them to get where they want with minimal impact on neighborhoods. East and West Columbus avenues, Liberty Street and Dwight Street, will all be important in these redirects. Drivers with local knowledge, on the other hand, such as those going about their daily commute, are less predictable. They may make their own routes.

This point sparked further commentary during the question-and-answer session. One resident said that he lives near Forest Park, a neighborhood including Longhill Street and Sumner Avenue. This area is south of where the work will be taking place, but this resident thinks it will nonetheless be in harm's way due to the traffic he expects from people coming from Connecticut, who "know the streets of Springfield pretty well" and will choose the Forest Park area as a route to downtown.

O'Dowd seemed to concede the possibility. He nodded, and said, "We will have a team go out and take a look at it."

Westfield's downtown revival pitched abroad

By Melissa Fales

WARE – The Ware Business and Civic Association (WBCA) welcomed Maureen Belliveau, executive director of Westfield's Business Improvement District (WBID), to Workshop 13 on May 21. Belliveau, a former Westfield business owner, has served as the WBID's executive director since 2012. Her presentation was the final program in a series of options for revitalizing downtown Ware, sponsored by the WBCA and the Ware Community Development Department.

The WBID is one of seven business improvement districts within the state of Massachusetts, along with Amherst, Boston, Hyannis, Northampton, Springfield and Taunton. "We're all similar, but not the same," said Belliveau. "The beautiful thing about a BID is that it can mold to the unique needs of your community."

Belliveau explained that in order to establish a BID, 51 percent of the business and property owners within the proposed district have to sign on in favor of its creation. The WBID was established in 2006 as a private, non-profit organization. "Since then, our main focus has been to address beautification and maintenance of the downtown," said Belliveau. "The streets were a mess with gum, graffiti, and trash and we cleaned them up. Keeping up with that and other beautification efforts take up the bulk of our budget." The WBID currently has an annual budget of approximately $223,000, with roughly $90,000 going towards maintenance last year.

The second largest portion of the WBID's budget goes towards marketing events. "For a long period of time, people tended to avoid downtown Westfield," said Belliveau. "We're working to get the word out that things are happening here again."

The WBID includes 190 properties with 157 property owners. Annual membership dues are one-half of one percent (.005) of their assessed property value. Belliveau told the crowd to consider the parameters of a BID carefully as once established it can't be expanded or reduced. "You'd need to dissolve and reform," she said.

Belliveau said the city of Westfield has been extremely supportive of the BID's efforts. Thanks to approximately $60,000 in Community Development Block Grant funding each year, the WBID has been able to offer programs such as a "Restore Westfield" façade improvement matching grant. Belliveau's program included a Power Point presentation of before and after shots of businesses within the WBID that have taken advantage of this opportunity.

Unfortunately, said Belliveau, the WBID is currently threatened by a petition to dissolve it. Up until 2012, Massachusetts allowed business and property owners located within a BID to opt-out of the program. Belliveau said the state changed the rules because businesses and property owners were benefitting by default whether or not they paid to join a BID. "Rising tides lift all boats," said Belliveau, adding that sidewalk sweeping, trash pick-up, and other improvement efforts affect the entire area.

However, some business and property owners are unhappy about losing the ability to opt-out, as well as other issues they have with the BID. They're following a provision within the BID allowing them to petition to City Council for dissolution. A public hearing is set for June 5. Belliveau warned the WBCA that the possibility for this type of petition exists within every BID. "You need to be aware that this can happen," she said.

WBCA member David Gravel asked Belliveau if there were specific statistics on how the BID has helped Westfield businesses. While Belliveau didn't have any figures on business growth, she said she's heard many positive comments from WBID members. "We do have supporters who say 'I don't know what would happen to me without the BID,'" she said.

Belliveau said one key to the WBID's success has been partnering with other community agencies. "The Westfield Business Improvement District may be about business, but it's also about collaboration, community, and what's best for Westfield," she said. "We work together with other groups who want the same thing. If you want to have a successful BID here in Ware, you'll need to build those partnerships, too."

The public is invited to the next meeting of the WBCA, June 25 at 6 p.m. at Workshop 13, to review all of the downtown revitalization options presented in the series. "We'll lay them side by side and look at the advantages and disadvantages," said William R. Braman, WBCA president. "Then it will be time for us to step forward and do the hard work."

State Sen. Donald Humason, R-Westfield, encouraged everyone to thank a veteran any time they had the opportunity. “It does not matter if you know them or not,” said Humason. “Thank them for their service. We have so many around here who work at the Veterans Cemetery here in Agawam or at Westover.”

Mayor Richard Cohen encouraged people to focus on remembrance rather than on having a day off for a picnic, going to the beach, or sales at stores.

“We gather to pay homage to those who gave their lives for us,” said Cohen. “Freedom is not free. It is only possible because our fallen heroes paid the ultimate sacrifice.”

Following speeches, the names of those on the Agawam War Memorial plaques were read by representatives from various branches of the Armed Forces. Wreathes were laid at each plaque, and the Agawam High School band also performed.

Brownies move on to volleyball semifinals

By Gregory A. Scibelli

AGAWAM – The Agawam High School boys volleyball team is eyeing a repeat trip to the Western Massachusetts Volleyball Tournament finals so they can repeat their state championship season.

The No. 1 seeded Brownies got their tournament season started with a quick 3-0 shutout of visiting Sabais International Charter School. During the three-game set, Agawam never trailed in the game, and the Brownies used the game as a chance to tune up for their big semifinal and possible final matches against much more difficult opponents.

The Brownies started the match with a 5-0 lead thanks to a some powerful hits by their top players, Ben Cassidy, Zach Goggin, Bailey Cecchi, and Wade Robidoux.

Up 5-1, Cecchi continued the momentum by scoring a kill on an emphatic spike and followed that up with an ace. Sabais was able to get a few points in between. But Agawam kept the score out of reach.

Aidan Pender got Agawam back on track with a kill to put the Brownies up 15-9.

Agawam would then go on to keep their distance and won the first game 25-17.

Sabais would give Agawam a bit of trouble to start the second game, with some good play by their hard hitters Alon Chappell and Erik Taylor.

But Agawam started to pull away late in the game with a pair of kills by Cecchi and Cassidy. Near the end of the game, Cassidy took over on the serving line and provided a couple of aces and helped Agawam lengthen their lead to 10 points at 22-12.

Cecchi and Robidoux would close out the second game with spikes and Agawam won game two 25-14.

The Brownies would win by the same score in game three. Once again, Sabais was taken out of the game in the middle of the set. Cassidy was again clutch for the Brownies as he scored a couple of impressive aces.

Goggin and Robidoux also contributed on defense with a couple of good blocks to help the Brownies score points in the middle of the game. Goggin would finish the game with a surprise set that landed where no one could get it. Goggin's ability to change things up with surprise sets just over the net has helped Agawam add a new element to their game. The Brownies are also taking control of games with the almost straight downward spiking ability of Cecchi and Robidoux.

Agawam secured the No. 1 seed with a 16-2 record and looks to be headed for a rematch with Chicopee Comprehensive. The Colts are seeded No. 2 at 13-3 and defeated Ludlow in the quarterfinals Tuesday night.

Comp will host West Springfield tonight at 6:30 p.m. while the Brownies host the other semifinal tonight at 6:30 p.m. against No. 4 Westfield.

The finals are scheduled to take place on Monday night at 6:30 p.m. at Holyoke Community College.

Westfield downs Agawam softball in regular season finale

By Gregory A. Scibelli
Turley Publications

AGAWAM – The Agawam High School softball team finished the season 16-4 and are headed to the tournament to defend their title streak, which stands at two straight sectional championships.

But standing in their way will likely be Westfield, which beat Agawam 9-5 last Friday afternoon in the final game of the regular season for both teams. Westfield's win made them a perfect 20-0 for the regular season.

With the exception of a nine-run fourth inning, Agawam played Westfield very tough and would likely have defeated Westfield.

Agawam got things started with leadoff hitter Danielle Stratton reaching on an error and moving to second base. Rachel Laponese would sacrifice Stratton to third base, and Taylor Marcotte's grounder to short brought Stratton home with the first run of the game.

In the second inning, Mary Kate Reidy would sock a gapper to right-center field. She was at third when the cutoff player received the ball. Kathy Georgina played for the run and aggressively sent Reidy home. Reidy made a great slide and was safe as the catcher dropped the ball on a close play at the plate. With the home run, Agawam led 2-0.

That quickly changed in the fourth inning when sophomore pitcher Ali Wheeler got in some rare trouble.

Wheeler retired the first hitter on a long fly ball ticketed for the gap in left-center when Laponese ran it down and made a great catch. But Wheeler walked the next two hitters and a third hitter reached base on a fielder's choice.

With the bases loaded, Annalise

Eak would send a ground single up the middle, scoring two runs to tie the score 2-2.

Wheeler would walk the next hitter to re-load the bases. Four more runs would come around to score on three base hits and a hit batter to make it 6-2 Westfield. Finally, a missed catch in the outfield allowed three runs to score and Westfield led 9-2.

Agawam did get three runs back in the sixth inning. Reidy and Lingenberg both had hits in the in-

AGAWAM – The Agawam High School girls lacrosse team is heading to the West/Central Massachusetts Division I Tournament following their final game of the regular season held last Tuesday afternoon at rival Westfield High School.

Agawam will be facing a much different looking field than in previous years before they have to contend with rivals Minnechaug and Longmeadow for the opportunity to fight for a title.

Agawam won their final two games of the regular season, beating out Tantasqua and Westfield.

Against the Bombers, Agawam had no shortage of offense. However, Westfield also poured on the goal-scoring power. Agawam outslugged Westfield 21-16.

Attacker Katie Martin picked a great time to get hot with Agawam heading into the tournament. She had her best performance of the regular season, scoring eight goals and having one assist to propel Agawam to the win.

Now, the Brownies were scheduled to face Minnechaug Regional High School in the opening round of the tournament. Because of the change in tournament formats, Agawam is part of a much larger tournament field with 18 teams in play.

Blue Sox add Ciaglo to coaching staff

SPRINGFIELD - The Valley Blue Sox have made an addition to their coaching staff, adding Fred Ciaglo as an Assistant Coach in addition to retaining Darryl Morhardt as Manager and Jim Woods as Assistant Coach, Team President Clark Eckhoff announced today.

“We’re excited to hire a coach with Ciaglo’s knowledge and his experience in the game of baseball,” Eckhoff said. “He’ll bring a great passion and enthusiasm to our coaching staff that will be a tremendous asset.”

Ciaglo has been involved in baseball in the Valley since he was able to throw a ball, playing at Hopkins Academy and then at Springfield College, helping pitch the Pride to the 1986 Northeast-10 Championship when the school competed in Division II athletics.

He has been a staple of the Tri-County League for the last two decades, twice winning the league’s Wes Carr Trophy for best pitcher and playing alongside Woods as well as Pittsburgh Pirates GM Neil Huntington.

He has taught and coached at Hopkins since graduating from Springfield, coaching boys and girls basketball as well as baseball over that time; in addition he spent a decade as Hadley Youth Baseball’s Coaching Coordinator and on the Board of Directors for the Cal Ripken level.

“Obviously I think the thing that really stands out about Fred right off the bat is his ability to relate to people,” General Manager Hunter Golden said. “While X’s and O’s are obviously a significant part of what is expected of our staff, managing the wide range of personalities and individual players’ needs is ultimately what helps to drive success at our level and we think Fred is more than equipped to be able to meet that challenge and then some.”

He has been involved with the Blue Sox as a host family for the last few seasons and will continue to do so, but is excited to be taking on a larger role with the team.

“I am excited to join the Blue Sox coaching staff. I have known Coach Woods since our days in college. I think my enthusiasm and passion for the game of baseball will fit in well with both Darryl and Jim,” Ciaglo said. “Having been a coach and an educator my entire life I look forward to working with some of the best collegiate baseball players in the nation. I hope to bring that balance of making the game fun yet also being competitive at a high level to help bring an NECBL championship to the Valley.”

Ciaglo, who earned a Master’s in Education from American International College in 2011, resides in Hadley with his wife and three sons.

The 2014 season will represent the Blue Sox seventh season in the Pioneer Valley, playing at Mackenzie Stadium in Holyoke. The Blue Sox have been a member of the New England Collegiate Baseball League (NECBL;www.necbl.com) since 2008. The NECBL is funded in part by Major League Baseball and is comprised of 12 teams throughout all six New England states who recruit the elite athletes and premier pro prospects from around the world.

Western Mass Pioneers game postponed by rain

LUDLOW – Lightning was the theme at Lusitano Stadium along with driving wind and rain that would not let up enough for the Pioneers to take the field against northeast divisional opponent the GPS Portland Phoenix Friday night.

League rules state that the referees are required to wait 30 minutes at the sight of the last lightning strike to start the game. The last strike did not end until well into the night and the team managers came to the conclusion that it was not feasible to play that evening.

“We feel awful that Portland traveled over 3 hours to compete and had to essentially turn around and drive home without playing. Safety of the fans, players and officials is the number one priority,” commented Chairman of the Western Mass Pioneers Steve Scott.

The make-up game will be announced at a later date. Everyone who paid to get into the postponed match will be able to use their ticket stub to get into another home game at no charge.

The Pioneers next home game is on Saturday, June 7 at 7:30 p.m. versus the Vermont Voltage. There will also be a special benefit soccer match for L.J. Maravilha prior starting at 5:00pm involving Ludlow Youth Soccer vs. the Ludlow Fire and Police departments. Email Paul Gomes at pmgomes@hotmail.com for advance tickets or to make a donation.

Note: A reminder that Pioneers soccer camps and Premier Summer Academy dates are available. Enroll now to ensure your spot! For the full schedule and more details, please visit www.wmpioneers.com. Continue to visit the Pioneers website and follow us on Facebook and Twitter for updates.

ning and Katie Grasso’s hit to the outfield was misplayed allowing a couple of runs to score.

But Westfield pitcher Sarah McNerney retired the side in order in the seventh to limit further damage.

Agawam was very good against the powerful Westfield pitcher. McNerney allowed five runs on nine hits. The amount of hits should give Agawam some confidence heading into the tournament, where they may encounter the Bombers again.

With the exception of the fourth inning, Wheeler pitched very well. She allowed nine runs on only five hits. Only six of the nine runs were earned. She also struck out eight hitters and walked four.

Tournament seeds were scheduled to be released on Tuesday, with Agawam awaiting their place in the tournament.

the end of the game. Agawam led 8-7 at halftime, but managed to pull away near the end of the game. The Brownies put up 13 goals in the second half.

The 13 goals were their best total in one-half this season. Their 21 goals for the game were their highest goal total of the regular season.

Helping out Agawam, Julie Serra had one of her best games of the season. She scored five times. Kelly Theriault had a four-goal game and had three assists.

Christie Mirski added two goals and three assists, and Marissa Ewing had two goals and one assist.

In goal, Agawam got 15 saves from the combination of Gabby Lescarbeau and Kristina Tran.

With the victory, Agawam finished the regular season at 11-7.

The tournament was scheduled to begin on Wednesday afternoon. Agawam will be hosting the first of three preliminary round games in the tournament. With Central Mass. teams being added to the tournament, there is now an 11-team field fighting for the championship.

Longmeadow and Minnechaug still received the top two seeds. Longmeadow was 16-1 this season while Minnechaug went 15-2.

Agawam was given the No. 8 seed and will host No. 9 Marlboro High School from Marlboro, Mass.

If Agawam is victorious, they would move on to face the No. 1 seed Longmeadow in the quarterfinals of the tournament. Agawam has not faced Longmeadow in a quarter-final matchup in several years. They have matched up with Longmeadow many times in the semifinal round.

Also participating in the Division I tournament from Central Mass. are Shrewsbury, Algonquin, Westboro, and Tantasqua. Western teams qualifying include East Longmeadow, Northampton, and West Springfield.

bined with some Central Mass. teams for the tournament. The Brownies received the No. 6 seed. Ahead of them are 19-1 Longmeadow as the top seed. St. John’s is 17-1 at No. 2. Shrewsbury is third, followed by Westfield and Westboro.

Longmeadow will have to play a first round game for the first time in years, hosting Tantasqua, which beat Northampton in overtime on Sunday. Longmeadow defeated Agawam in the quarterfinals of last year’s tournament.

If Agawam defeated Minnechaug on Tuesday, they would play the winner of the Shrewsbury/Shepherd Hill match. If Shrewsbury wins, Agawam would have to travel for the quarterfinal match at a date and time to be determined and announced at www.miaa.net.

Agawam finished out their regular season by defeating Northampton 5-4 last Tuesday afternoon.

Agawam scored three times in the third quarter and overcame a late rally by Northampton as well as a scoreless fourth quarter on offense to hold on for the win.

Tahir Blair had an excellent game in goal for Agawam as he made 15 saves. T.J. Lockwood had two goals for the Brownies and Bobby Koziol, John Colwell, and Elijah Bard had the other goals.

On May 15, the Brownies scored a league win over Cathedral High School 13-8.

Both offenses were very aggressive, but Agawam was able to put up bigger numbers in the first half to get staked to a lead at half-time.

Agawam had a lull in the third quarter but came back to score five times in the fourth quarter to put the game away.

Tyler Billick scored four times and had one assist for the Brownies. Colwell and Lockwood each had three goals and two assists for Agawam and Nick Hanchett added two goals. Blair made 12 saves in goal.

THE DVR IS ONE OF THE BEST THINGS TO HAPPEN TO TELEVISION

It’s not that great for television advertisers though

From year to year, the studies have shown that people believe in their local papers for the news they need and the advertising they rely on.

Local newspapers are also preferred in a 3-1 margin over TV, showing consistency from previous research. On average, readers of a 2012 survey spent 39.92 minutes reading local newspapers, up slightly more than the 38.95 minutes in 2011 and 37.5 minutes in 2010. The best medium to fast forward your business message remains in print.
